NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Revelation of extensive German plots in Mexico during the war, which included a proposed invasion of the United States by a German Mexican army of 45,000 men, at the same time that the Germans launched their last drive on the western front in July, 1918, was made here tonight by the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico, which gave out a statement by Dr. P. B. Altendorf, formerly of the United States military intelligence department, reciting his experience as an American secret service agent in that country.

Doctor Altendorf, the son of a Polish banker in Cracow, Austrian Poland, abandoned a medical course in the University of Vienna at the outbreak of the war and fled to Mexico, where he was offered a position as a German spy to operate against the United States by Kurt Jahnke, the German secret service in Mexico.

Altendorf, after being given a position of reluctance, but with secret joy, accepted, he said, "and at once found myself in a position to render valuable service to the Allies in general and the United States in particular."

He opened communication with the border as a volunteer worker to the military intelligence department, he claims, and later was sworn in as a special agent of the military intelligence department.

The association states that it has investigated his claims, and the British Foreign Office, with the British military intelligence department, "spoke in terms of highest praise of the zeal and trustworthiness of Doctor Altendorf and the great value of the services he rendered."

In addition to explaining his activities in Mexico, Doctor Altendorf warns the people of the United States against a proposed German commercial conquest of Mexico.

Seek Congress.

"Within six months after the United States ratifies the treaty of peace," he said, "Germany will have absolute economic control of Mexico. Within a few years if they are permitted to carry out the plans they have formulated, and are now executing as fast as they can, the Germans will have absolute economic, political and military control of Latin America, with headquarters in Mexico."

Referring to the proposed invasion of the United States, Doctor Altendorf said forth that in his dual capacity as a captain in the German army and a colonel in the Mexican army, he helped to train 9,000 German revolutionaries in Sonora, who were to form the nucleus of the proposed German Mexican army, and that in his true character as an American secret service agent he prevented the raid from being carried out.

"The ambitious scheme," he said, "was financed by von Eckhardt (German ambassador to Mexico) and was undertaken with the co-operation of Carranza," says Doctor Altendorf, summarizing his services in Mexico in part:

Blew Up Plants.

It delivered into the hands of the United States military authorities the German secret agent Lathar Witeke, alias Pablo Wahlski, the most important individual capture of the war, so far as America was concerned. Wahlski boasted to me that he had blown up several munitions plants and stores of explosives, including the black gunpowder explosion in New York, blew up some ships and caused disastrous fires in the forests of the Pacific Northwest.

Wahlski was on his way to the United States by way of Nogales, Ariz., on another mission when captured by me. On his person was found a copy of the German imperial order that came into the possession of the American government. Wahlski was court martialled and from the fact that his case is before the president for review, it is believed, to have been sentenced to death, the only German spy to receive such a sentence in the United States.

I also betrayed 58 other German agents and thus enabled the military intelligence department to keep effective watch on them, noted mention some renegade Americans, who MUSKOGEE, Aug. 23.—Street cars were operated for the second day today without any attempt by the union car men and their sympathizers to interfere. Automobiles filled with heavily armed citizen police followed each street car, and squads of officers were stationed at the end of each line. Three shifts were used.

The car men both gained and lost strength today. At a meeting breaking up after 3 o'clock this morning representatives of the four railroad brotherhoods adopted a resolution repudiating the car men and declaring that "there is no strike." The railroad men had argued with officials of the Muskogee Electric Traction company for more than 14 hours without intermission, and had secured many concessions for the men, but the union officials refused to agree to the terms.

At the same time the railroad men were deciding to get behind the car men the building trades council met and voted a sympathetic strike, and the result was many went out today. Numerous carpenters and others were still busy today, however, finishing up jobs and an effort is being made to have the builders rescind their action before the strike actually becomes general.

Jailers were hampered by the police this morning and this caused the cars to have more patronage later in the day than in the early hours.

Numerous carpenters and others were still busy today, however, finishing up jobs and an effort is being made to have the builders rescind their action before the strike actually becomes general.

The greatest democratic campaign fund raised to date, said Mr. Jamie, was $2,500,000, contributed by 200,000 members of the party to re-elect President Wilson in 1916. This year, he said, an intensive campaign will be pushed to obtain contributions averaging $5 from at least 2,000,000 persons.

Explaining the size of the fund sought, Mr. Jamieson said the coming campaign was expected to be the most intense ever seen, though he declined to discuss the probable issue in any detail.

A large part of the $5,000,000 fund Mr. Jamieson said, would be needed for work among the 12,000,000 Negro women who will cast their votes in the election.

Touching on the question of candidates, he mentioned President Wilson, in case the League of Nations is defeated; William McAdoo, Attorney General Palmer, Governor of Ohio, John W. Davis, ambassador to England; Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, and Vice President Marshall.

HOMECOMING PLANNED FOR ALL EX-SERVICE TULSANS

Through the efforts of the war camp community arrangements are being made to hold a "welcome home" for all ex-service men at Convention hall, Friday evening, August 23.

This entertainment will be in the form of a variety show followed by dancing. According to J. W. Cray, local secretary, an effort is being made to secure a prominent local man to deliver the address of welcome.

The action was taken without extended debate shortly after the committee began its work, an amendment under a plan to report the treaty to the Senate if possible with the next week.

The Shantung amendment is expected by leaders on both sides to develop greater strength than any other in the Senate, said Dr. George Lodge, chairman of the committee.

After the meeting Chairman Lodge said he did not know to what extent the request for more information might interfere with the plans of the committee for quick action on the Versailles treaty and declined to predict when the committee would be able to report to the Senate.

While there was movement in the committee for a report next week, he had never expressed any opinion as to whether action then would be possible.

The men entered the building through a back door and filed into the store with blue handkerchiefs covering their faces. About 10 persons were present at the time one man was left on the sidewalk in front of the store. While those in the store were going through the cash register, the man who left the counter and started for a shotgun which he kept at the WASHINGON, Aug. 23.—After voting to amend the peace treaty by striking out Japan's title to the German rights in Shantung, the Senate foreign relations committee notified President Wilson today that it could not intelligently proceed with its work on amendments until be furnished additional information.

The action on the Shantung provision was taken in sharp order, Chairman Lodge proposing the amendment and the committee adopting it virtually without debate. The vote was 2 to 8, with all the democratic members and Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, voting in the negative.

In the point of inadequate information was raised by republican members, Chairman Lodge declaring that the members in the committee's action were not informed of the important documents which were absolutely essential to the termination of questions involved in the committee's work. During its investigation of the Shantung provision, the committee had been hampered by lack of information that should have been given it weeks ago.

Wilson must tell more of what happened to ratify the treaty.
